

Professional Development of Science Teachers

The theory of pedagogical content knowledge is presented. The complex nature, sources and development are investigated. The factors influencing professional growth, such as context factors, teacher's belief and teacher's knowledge about teaching and learning, are involved. In addition, the strategies of designing professional development and the method of action research are studied.